THE SHINING SHORE.

BY DR. NELSON.

My days are gliding swiftly by,
And I, a pilgrim stranger,
Would not detain them as they fly—
Those hours of toil and danger.

CHORUS:—For oh! we stand on Jordon's strand,
Our friends are passing over;
And just before, the shining shore
We may almost discover.

We'll gird our loins, my brethren dear,
Our distant home discerning;
Our absent lord has left us word,
Let every lamp be burning.

CHORUS:—For oh! we stand on Jordan's strand, &c.

Should coming days be cold and dark,
We need not cease our singing;
That perfect rest naught can molest,
Where golden harps are ringing.

CHORUS:—For oh! we stand on Jordon's strand, &c.

Let sorrow's rudest tempests blow,
Each chord on earth to sever;
Our King says, "Come!" and there's our home,
For ever, oh! for ever.

CHORUS:—For oh! we stand on Jordan's strand, &c.

Select Miscellany.

THE CAVE OF DEATH.

In Hugh Miller's posthumous work entitled "The Cruise of the Betsy," we take the following interesting account of the Cave in which the whole people of the Island of Eigg, one of the Hebrides, were smoked to death by a neighboring clan, the McLeods:

"We struck a light, and, worming ourselves through the narrow entrance, gained the interior—a true rock gallery, vastly more roomy and lofty than one could have anticipated from the mean vestibule placed in front of it. Its extreme length we found to be two hundred and sixty feet; its extreme breadth twenty-seven feet; its height, where the roof rises highest, from eighteen to twenty feet. The cave seems to have owed its origin to two distinct causes. The trap rock on each side of the fault-like crevice which separates them are greatly decomposed as if by the moisture from above; and directly in the line of the crevice must the surf have charged, wave after wave, ages ere the last upheavel of the land. When the Dog-stone at Dunolly existed as a sea stack, skirted with algæ, the breakers on this shore must have dashed every tide though the narrow opening of the cavern, and scooped out by handfuls the decomposing trap within.

"The process of decomposition, and consequent enlargement, is still going on inside, but there is no longer an agent to sweep away the disintegrated fragments. Where the roof rises highest, the floor is blocked up with accumulations of bulky decaying masses, that have dropped from above; and it is covered over its entire area by a stratum of earthly rubbish, which has fallen from the sides and ceiling in such abundance that it covers up the straw beds of the perished islanders, which still exist beneath, as a brown mouldering felt, to the depth of from five to eight inches. Never yet was tragedy enacted on a gloomier theatre. An uncertain twilight glimmers gray at the entrance, from the narrow vestibule; but all within, for two hundred feet, is black as with Egyptian darkness. As we passed on with our one feeble light, along the dark mouldering walls and roof, which absorbed every straggling ray that reached them, and over the dingy floor, roppy and damp, the place called to recollection that hall in Roman story, hung and carpeted with black, into which Domitian once thrust his senate, in a frolic, to read their own names on the coffin-lids placed against the wall. The darkness seemed to press upon us from every side, as if it were a dense jetty fluid, out of which our light had scooped a pailful or two, and that was rushing in to supply the vacuum; and the only objects we saw distinctly visible were each other's heads and faces, and the lighter parts of our dress.

"The floor, for about one hundred feet inwards from the narrow vestibules, resembles that of a charnel-house. At almost every step we came upon heaps of human bones grouped together, as the Psalmist so graphically describes, 'as when one cutteth and cleaveth wood to the earth.' They are of a brownish, earth hue, here and there tinged with green; the skulls, with the exception of a few broken fragments, have disappeared; for travelers in the Hebrides have of late years been numerous and curious; and many a museum—that at Abbotsford among the rest—exhibits, in a grinning skull, its memorial of the Massacre of Eigg. We find, too, further marks of visitors in the single bones separated from the heaps, and scattered over the area; but enough still remains to show, in the general disposition of the remains, that the hapless islanders died under the walls in families, each little group separated by a few feet from the others. Here and there the remains of a detached skeleton may be seen, as if some robust islander, restless in his agony, had stalked out into the middle space ere he fell; but the social arrangement is the general one.

"And beneath every heap we find, at the depth as has been said, of a few inches, the remains of the straw bed upon which the family had lain, largely mixed with the smallest bones of the human frame, ribs and the vertebræ, and hand and feet bones; occasionally, too, with fragments of unglazed pottery, and various other implements of rude housewifery. The minister found for me, under one family heap, the pieces of a half-burned, unglased earthen jar, with a narrow mouth, that, like the sepulchral urns of our ancient tumuli, had been moulded by the hand, without the assistance of the potter's wheel; and to one of the fragments there stuck a minute pellet of grey hair. From under another heap he disintered the handle-stave of a child's wooden porringer (bicker,) perforated by a hole still bearing the mark of the cord that had hung it to the wall; and beside the stave lay a few of the larger, less destructible bones of the child, with what for a time puzzled us both not a little—one of the grinders of a horse.

"Certain it was, no horse could have got there to have dropped a tooth—a foal of a week old could not have passed itself through the opening; and how that single grinder, evidently no recent introduction into the cave, could have got mixed up in the straw with the human bones, seemed an enigma somewhat of the class to which the reel in the bottle belongs. I found in Edinburgh, an unexpected commentator on the mystery, in the person of my little boy, an experimental philosopher in his second year. I had spread out on the floor the curiosities of Eigg, among the rest, the relics of the cave, including the pieces of earthen-jar, and the fragments of the porringer; but the horse's tooth seemed to be the only real curiosity among them in the eyes of little Bill. He laid instant hold of it; and, appropriating it as a toy, continued playing with it till he fell asleep.

"I have now little doubt but that it was first brought into the cave by the poor child amid whose mouldering remains Mr. Swanson found it. This little pellet of gray hair spoke of feeble old age involved in this wholesale massacre, with the vigorous manhood of the island; and here was a story of unsuspecting infancy amusing itself on the eve of destruction with its toys. Alas for man! 'Should not I spare Nineveh, that great city,' said God to the angry prophet, 'wherein are more than six score thousand persons that cannot disern between their right hand and their left?' God's image must have been sadly defaced in the murderers of the poor inoffensive children of Eigg, ere they could have heard their feeble wailings, raised, no doubt, when the stifling atmosphere within began first to thicken, and yet ruthlessly persist in their indiscriminate destruction."* * *

"Some hundreds of years ago," says Mr. Wilson, "a few of the McLeods landed in Eigg from Skye, where, having greatly misconducted themselves, the Eiggitas strapped them to their own boats, which they set adrift in the ocean. They were, however, rescued by some clansmen; and soon after a strong body of the McLeods set sail from Skye, to revenge themselves on Eigg. The natives of the latter island, feeling they were of not of sufficient force to offer resistance, went and hid themselves, (men, women and children,) in this secret cave, which is narrow, but of great subterranean length, with an exceedingly small entrance. It opens from the broken face of a steep bank along the shore: and, as the whole coast is cavernous the particular retreat would have been sought for in vain by strangers. So the Syke-men, finding the Island uninhabited, presumed the natives had fled, and satisfied their revengeful feelings by ransacking and pillaging the empty houses. Probably the movables were of no great value. They then took their departure, and left the island, when the sight of a solitary human being among the cliffs awakened their suspicion and induced them to return. Unfortunately a slight sprinkling of snow had fallen, and the footsteps of an individual were traced to the mouth of the cave. Not having been there ourselves at the period alluded to, we cannot speak with certainty as to the nature of the parley which ensued, or the terms offered by either party; but we know that those were not the days of protocols. The ultimatum was not satisfactory to the Skye-men, who immediately proceeded to 'adjust the preliminaries' in their own way, which adjustment consisted in carrying a vast collection of heather, ferns, and other combustibles, and making a huge fire just in the very entrance of the Uamh Faaingh, which they kept up for a length of time; and thus, by 'one fell smoke,' they smoothered the entire population of the island."

PADDY BEWILDERED.—A farmer once told his man who was thoroughly Irish, to run into the pasture and catch an ox. "I mean the off one—I will manage the other myself," said he.

Pat ran to do as he was bidden, but suddenly paused on his way, with the exclamation:

He's a reasonable fellow, anyhow, bedad and how am I to know which is the orphan?'

A Diabolical Exhibition.

A MAN'S HEAD CUT OFF.

In the year 1856, said to us yesterday a distinguished legal gentleman of New Orleans, I visited Paris in the course of a European tour, that my Americanism might be polished down by a little attrition among the genteel particles of Parisian society. I found the world of Paris in a very considerable state of excitement in consequence of an extraordinary performance which was nightly exhibited by an Eastern juggler, and which was nothing more or less than the apparent decapitation of a man in the presence of an audience, and under the very noses of a committee of medical gentlemen, who stood only so far distant while the operation was being performed as to escape the swing of the long two-edged sword with which the juggler smote off the head.

I went to see this exhibition, which took place in the theatre, in company with several American gentlemen. The theatre was crowded with between two and three thousand spectators, and the curtain was up, displaying a common table six feet long, upon the stage, at the very edge of which I obtained a seat, having gone very early.

At a given time the juggler, a singular looking man, came upon the stage with his shirt sleeves rolled up to the shoulders, and bearing a long, heavy, two-edged sword. He upset the table upon the boards, and showed than there was no concealed drawer or other recess, and placed it in the blaze of the footlights near the edge of the stage. In a few words he stated what he was going to do, and requested some of the audience to come forward and stand upon the stage, that they might see that there was no deception.—A number of medical gentlemen who had been chosen as a committee to investigate the matter, if possible, took their position upon the stage, and soon after the victim, who had been sitting in the parquette, mounted the stage, removed his coat and cravat, turned back his shirt collar, and laying down upon his back upon the table, elevated his chin to more fairly expose his neck to the headsman's weapon. The juggler then raised his keen and fearful looking sword, and giving it a wide sweep, brought it down—I say brought it down upon the neck, for no one could see that he did not, even those within three feet of him—upon the neck of the subject with great force!

Blood spurted high in the air, some of it falling on our own party, and deluged the stage, while the most fearful sound, something between a groan and a shriek of horror from the whole assemblage, shook the building, and numerous women and some males fell fainting in their seats, and were borne out by the ushers of the house. The juggler raised his sword again, repeated the blow, and the dissevered head fell upon the floor! Taking it by the hair he held it up to the audience for full five minutes, until the blood had ceased to flow from the several arteries, the lower jaw had fallen, and the face had assumed the appearance of a corpse's; then throwing it heavily upon the stage, he requested the committee to examine it, which they did passing it from hand to hand. They then examined the body upon the table, from the headless neck of which the blood had not ceased to drop upon the floor of the stage; they lifted the limbs and let them fall with the limb inertia of lifeless matter, and of course, pronounced the man dead to all intents and purposes.

After they had concluded their investigation, the juggler informed the audience that he was going to put the man's head on again, and restore him to life. Taking up the head he laid it on the table, began to mutter and make signs over the corpse. In about five minutes the lately decapitated man slowly turned his ghastly and altogether horrible face—white as snow—towards the audience, and an excitement followed exceeding, if anything, that which occured when the first blow of the sword fell. In a few moments the eyelids gradually opened and displayed the eyes wearing a glassy, corpse-like stare; by degrees a life-like speculation came into them, some color returned to the face; and, after stretching his limbs, the man arose from the table, resumed his coat, and walked down from the stage and mingled with the crowd.

The exhibition was over. The neck of the apparently decapitated man bore a red mark and scar around it, like the cacatrice of a newly healed wound. All this I saw with my own eyes, which were as effectually deceived as those of tens of thousands of other persons. I could in no way, consistently with reason, account for any feature of this horrible thrilling feat of trickery. I have never heard of the trick being performed by any other man, and very possible it originated and died with him. However, it is scarcely more accountable than often displayed feats of the roit fraternity of eastern jugglers.—N. O. True Deltu.

A Troublesome Swap.

The New York Tribune relates an amusing story, which it declares to be true, of a lady and gentleman at a bathing place on Long Island. They were engaged to be married, and one warm evening when walking along the beach, talking nonsense, they came to a beautiful cove, which was divided by a rocky projection into two nice little bathing places. It was agreed that they should bath here, one taking one place, and the other the other. They went in, were having a first rate time splashing about and talking over the rock to each other, when a little scamp who had been fishing there, happened to see them, and straightway was possessed by the devil to change their clothes. He did it, and the result is thus related:

As the boy ran behind a sand hill, his long shadow between her and the sinking sun attracted the lady's notice, and in some terpidation she hastened to don her apparel. Fancy her "feelings" on finding, not her own clothes, but the hat, coat, vest, and other articles, in extenso of the gentleman on the other side of the promontary! How could it have happened—and what was to be done? Was that fearfully long shadow some spirit of the sea on shore, who, offended at her intrusion upon his solitude had resorted to his method of punishing her temerity. It were better to imagine her situation than attempt to describe it.

In the meantime the gentleman, too, repaired to the shore to dress. Speechless astonishment was depicted on his countenance, as it fell upon a heap of woman's clothing. "What in thunder," he muttered to himself, "does this mean!—Is the place turned round, or am I crazy!" In the greatest perplexity he took up one article of feminine apparel after another to the number of about thirty, letting one after another drop again upon the rock where he stood, with many a half audible ejaculation of wonder. There was no doubt in his mind as to whom the things belonged; but how did they get there, and where were his own clothes? With one arm akimbo, he pressed his other hand upon his forehead to collect his bewildered senses, little thinking that the mischievous elf who was the author of his embarressment was laughing at him from behind the same sand hill.

After a few moments hesitation, the gentleman shouted to his lady love the awkward intelligence, and in return was informed that his clothes lay at her feet. All that was to be done was to exchange the lots; but how in the name of delicacy was that consummation, so devoutly wished to be affected? The sun was now down, but it was not dark yet. Finally it was arranged that the lady should venture into the water, with her eyes seaward, while the lover should exchange clothes and return to his side of the rocks.

Unfortunately, just as he was about to cut around the other side to perform that duty, he caught sight of a couple of young ladies not far off, and he felt compelled to retreat precipitately to his place again.—His discomfitted companion would have then come out hastily and called to the ladies for their help, but they were distant, and between herself and them she saw a boy passing along.

To cut the story short, the "peculiarly unpleasant predicament," lasted until the young lady felt it necessary to save herself from being chilled to death, to attire herself in her lover's clothing. He, on his part, put her garments to the same use for his own benefit, and a pretty good fit it was; for the two friends were about of a size, and but for the discrepancy of a full beard he might in a less dusky light than then prevailed, have passed for a lady. It was his intention, in some way or another, he hardly knew how, to rectify the matter immediately, but when he had ventured to join his laughing, blushing sweetheart, he saw the mischievous boy a little distance off, with a grin on his impish countenance, closely watching their motions. Quickly putting a hankerchief to his face to conceal his tell-tale beard, the gentleman took the lady's arm, and they sauntered on the shore until it was dark, then entered the hotel as privately as possibly; and making the best of their way to their respective rooms, lost to time in donning more appropriate habiliments.

Washington in Tears.

At the close of the Revolution it is well known that Congress was unable to meet its obligations to the Army. Division of counsel existed as to the best method of raising the necessary funds to pay off the army before it was disbanded. While thus the hopes of the unpaid army were alternately elevated and depressed, some traitorous person scattered an anonymous circular among them, fomenting the dissatisfaction already existing, and leading to open rebellion. The individual who was suspected to have been the author of this paper was General Armstrong. Washington summoned all the officers into his presence to hear an appeal, which he had prepared, and a copy of which is found in Marshall's Life. Neither wild lands, however rich, nor con tinental paper, however legal, would purchase bread or clothing. The minds of the army had become embittered by poverty and disappointment, and their principles corrupted by the infidel French Literature which flooded our land, and poisoned all the fountains of society.

On a certain day the loyal and disloyal gathered around the Father of our Country. General Gates, against whom charges made had been withdrawn, presided. General Washington arose with his manuscript in hand, to read a rebuke to treason. But tears suffusing his eyes, prevented him. What a scene for some American Vernet! He grasped the scroll, dashing away the tears, and essayed again to read. But all was silent. His noble frame heaved with emotion. In order to suffer his agitated feelings to subside, he began hunting for his spectacles.

"Pardon me gentlemen," he said, I have grown grey and blind in the service of my country!"

What a rebuke were these words to the concealed promoters of treason! Many who before might have faltered were melted by those tears. They gathered closer and closer around the noble form, and when he closed, they resolved to stand to the death by their devoted leader. Those tears, under Providence, may have saved our country.

A Hard Witness.

The following dialogue, which occurred several years ago, between a lawyer and a witness, in a justice's court, not a great many thousand miles from this place, is worth relating:

It seems that Mr. Jones loaned Mr. Smith a horse, which died while in his (Smith's) possession. Mr. Jones brought suit to recover the value of the horse, attributing his death to bad treatment.—During the course of the trial a witness (Mr. Brown) was called to the stand to testify as to how Mr. Smith treated horses.

Lawyer (with a bland and confidence-invoking smile.) "Well, Sir, how does Mr. Smith generally ride a horse?"

Witness (with a very merry twinkle in his eye, imperturbable.) "A straddle I believe Sir."

Lawyer (with a scarcely perceptible flush of vexation upon his cheek, but still speaking in his smoothest tones.)

"But, sir, what gait does he ride?"

Witness, "He never rides any gait, Sir. His boys ride all the gates."

Lawyer (his bland smile gone and his voice slightly husky.) "But how does he ride when in company with others?"

Witness, "Keep up, if his horse is able; if not, he goes behind."

Lawyer, (triumphantly, and in perfect fury.) "How does he ride when alone Sir?"

Witness, "Don't know; never was with him when he was alone."

Lawyer, "I have done with you Sir."

☞ A negro boy being told by his master to borrow a pound of lard from his neighbor, thus delivered his message;—'Missus Thompson, massa sen' me over to borrow or beg a pound of hog-tallow; he says he got de old sow up in de pen fatten 'em, he gwine to kill her day before yesterday, and he come over week 'fore last and pay all you owe us.'

☞ A Quaker having sold a fine looking, but blind horse, asked the purchaser.

"Well, my friend, dost thou see any fault in him?"

'No,' was the answer.

'Neither will he ever see any in the said old Broadbrim.

☞ Two centuries ago not one in one hundred wore stockings. Fifty years ago not one boy in a thousand was allowed to run at large at night. Fifty years ago not one girl in a thousand made a waiting-maid of her mamma. Wonderful improvements in this wonderful age!

☞ The keeper of a menagerie was lately seen beating an elephant with a large club. A bystander asked him the cause. 'Why,' said the keeper, 'he has been flinging dust all over the tent, and he's big enough to know better.

☞ A man has been arrested in New port, Ohio, for robbing his wife of several hundred dollars, which she had accumulated by hard labor. He was committed for trial.

The Altoona Tribune.

ALTOONA, PA.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 23, 1858.

☞ Where parties are unknown to us, our rule for advertising is to require payment in advance, or a guarantee from known persons. It is therefore useless for all such to send us advertisements offering to pay at the end of three or six months. Where advertisements are accompanied with the money, whether one, five or ten dollars, we will give the advertiser the full benefit of cash rates.

Three Candidates for Congress.

Notwithstanding the exertions of a number of politicians to patch up the rent now existing between the American and Republican parties, in this county, we can not, for the life of us, see that that rent is becoming any smaller. On the contrary, much as it is to be regretted, the breach appears to be widening. It was agreed, we believe, as a consideration to the Americans, that in the event of the nomination of Mr. Blair for Congress, the Republican county ticket was to be withdrawn immediately; but this promise has not been fulfilled, and rumor says it will not be.—A number of Republicans and some of the candidates refuse to submit to the dictation of the Congressional candidate's friends and insist upon keeping up a distinct organization. What the result of this course will be, we can easily sum up. Mr. Patton, the American candidate for Congress is still in the field and will remain there, and will receive the support of the Americans in the District and also of the Republicans who are dissatisfied with their candidate. Each party blames the other, but that does not mend the matter.

In Huntingdon county, affairs are in a worse state than in Blair, as the disaffection appears to be more general, and there is no capital to trade upon, whereby the Americans can be brought into the support of Mr. Blair.

☞ EMERSONS MAGAZINE.—The September number of this periodical is before us. It contains a continuation of the "Life of Washington," which is alone worth the subscription price. The aim of the publisher is to make it a decided original American publication, and such we consider it. Among its contributors are some of the finest writers in the country. The engravings are got up on wood and are of the very finest kind. A magnificent steel engraving is given to every subscriber. Oaksmith & Co., publishers, New York.

☞ PENNSYLVANIA IRON MANUFACTURE.—In Pennsylvania alone, there was produced last year, nearly 450,000 tons of pig iron: of manufactured iron, 227,837 tons. The entire production last year was 1,000,000 tons, while the consumption was only 1,396,000 tons, a fact in itself which, to a great extent, accounts for the unusually small demand from England. The iron manufactured in the States, in 1856, was as much as it was in England 35 years ago. In Pennsylvania, alone, there are employed 40,000 persons, taking the furnaces, mills and forges.

☞ The New York State Democratic Convention met in Syracuse, on Thursday last, and nominated Amasa J. Parker, of Albany, for Governor; John J. Taylor, ex-member of Congress, for Lieutenant Governor; S. B. Piper, for Canal Commissioner, and E. T. Donnelly for State Prison Inspector. The feud between the two delegations from New York city does not seem to have been compromised or healed in any degree. The softs predominated. The convention adjourned after adopting resolutions of a national character.

☞ Well, our friends of the Harrisburg Telegraph took our hint and forwarded us a copy of their daily sheet. We have examined it carefully and find that it comes fully up to all that has been said about it. The fact is, it should have been on our table long ago, and had we known it to be as valuable a little sheet as it is, we would not have done without it until this time. Send it along regularly, friends, and we will credit all we clip from it, and recommend it to all who wish a good daily from Harrisburg.

☞ GRAHAM'S MAGAZINE.—The October number of this beautiful Magazine now graces our table. Every lady should subscribe for it at once. Terms—One copy, one year, and beautiful premiums, $3; two copies, one year, and two valuable premiums, $5. Watson & Co., Philada.

☞ We have received the October number of the Atlantic Monthly. It is a very superior one, filled with a number of high-toned original articles. The first article, "The New World and the New Man," is especially deserving perusal for the vigor, freshness and quaintness of the thoughts. The "Autocrat," gives in this issue the last of his charming table conversations. The whole series is to be published in book form, and will certainly make one of the most readable books of the season. Published by Phillips, Sampson & Co., 13 Winter street, Boston.

EXCITING NEWS.—The State Fair.—The enterprising officers of the State Society have made arrangements to have a Donkey race, the last in to win a silver cup. There will be rare sport. We have little doubt the competition will be lively. The rules of the race are, that no owner shall ride his own animal; that no one who starts shall turn back, or stop, and that the last one at the goal shall be considered the winner. Of course, it is for the interest of every aspirant to urge on the Donkey on which he rides, so as to keep ahead of his own, ridden by another.

☞ In another column will be found the communication of "An American," in reply to the attack of the Hollidaysburg Register on the American Congressional Conference. Neither the attack of the Register nor the reply of "An American" will tend much to heal the breach between the satisfied and dissatisfied portions of the party. It will require a different mode of procedure to drive the Americans into the support of the Republican candidate.

☞ Godey's Lady's Book for October, one of the most magnificent numbers yet issued, has been received and duly welcomed by our household. The "Miracles of Christ" are really superb representations, and do honor to the artist hand that engraved them. The reading matter is beyond comparison, and the fashion plates, &c., such as every lady should have upon her table.

MAINE ELECTION.—Morrill, Republican candidate for Governor, has been re-elected by about nine thousand majority. Mr. French, Republican, has been elected to Congress from the Third District by a trifling majority, and not Mr. Johnson, as the first returns seemed to indicate. The delegation, consequently, continues all Republican.

☞ Some Pumpkin—the one we saw at the Logan House the other day, raised on the farm of D. R. Miller, Esq., at Sawickley.

☞ Four horses, entered on Wednesday at the Hamilton County, Ohio, Fair grounds, for a trotting match, were valued at $14,000

☞ By the last accounts from Fraser river, provisions were very scarce and dear. Dog meat was selling at fifty cents per pound, ☞ Handsome—the neatly carved gold badge of office worn by Col. C. F. Jackson. It was presented to him on his last birth-day. No man is more worthy.

☞ Gov. Denver, of Kansas, has resigned, and will probably resume his position as Commissioner of Indian Affairs in the course of a few weeks.

☞ A Texas paper mentions that, in one of the counties of that State, "nine children have been killed by their parents within the last three months."

☞ Slightly Sold—the chap who took the Branch Train for Tyrone, on Saturday last, and didn't discover his mistake until the train was in the neighborhood of Baker's Furnace.

☞ After the clergyman had united a happy pair, an awful silence ensued, which was broken by an impatient youth, exclaiming, "Don't be so unspeakably happy."

☞ The number of visitors at Newport this season is estimated at rising 15,000, the greatest number at any one time being about 7,000 from the 15th to the 20th of August,

☞ In Lafayette, Indiana, they have a gigantic Indian on exhibition. He is 19 years of age, stands seven feet seven inches in his moccasins, and weighs four hundred and eighty-six pounds.

☞ Col. Jas. S, Wallace, formerly of the Philadelphia Sun, but recently a theatrical manager, is now associated with George D. Prentice, in the editorial charge of the Louisville (Ky.) Journal.

☞ An English officer writes from India, of the taking of a Rajah and the sacking of his palace. They found in the treasure vaults, bags containing 320,000 rupees and £80,000 in gold, with jewels estimated at £200,000.

☞ John Wesley says: "When I was young, I was sure of everything; in a few years, having been mistaken a thousand times, I was not half so sure of most things as I was before: at present, I am hardly sure of anything but what God has revealed to man."

☞ The Comet.—Those of our readers who get up early enough can have a fine view of the comet, now visible at four o'clock every morning. The heavenly visitor has taken up its position a little to the east of the Great Bear, and but a short distance above the horizion. When no better instrument is at hand, an ordinary opera-glass will enable a person to see very plainly, but even with the naked eye a good view can be had of the distinguished stranger.

☞ At Cleveland, a lawyer, noted for defending burglars and counterfeiters, had his horse stolen from his stable a few nights since. On advertising, by advertisement, who owned the horse, the thief immediately returned it, without claiming the reward.

☞ The citizens of Polk county, Texas, lynched a man named Garner recently, by completely riddling him with bullets and shot.—He had just committed a brutal murder, and the citizens, fearing justice would not be meted out to him, took the matter in their own hands.

☞ The quickest rate of locomotion, after the electric spark, light, sound, and cannon balls, is ascertained to be the flight of a swallow. One of these birds has been let off at Ghent, and made its way to its nest at Antwerb, in 12½ minutes, going at the rate of five kilometres a minute (i. e. 4½ miles.)

☞ "You have lost your baby, I hear, said a gentleman to another. "Yes poor little thing! It was only five months old. We did all we could for it. We had four doctors, blistered his head and feet, put mustard poultices all over it, gave it nine calomel powders, leeched its temples, had it bled, and gave it all kinds of medicines; and yet, after a week's illness, it died."

☞ Jim Lane Whipped.—Jim Lane, of Kansas, has been brought down to a level with the Governor of Missouri. He has been whipped, as we learn by the St. Joseph papers. The whipping was done by a lawyer named Quigley, and occurred in one of the border towns of Kansas. Lane was dissatisfied with the thrashing and sent a challenge to Quigley. It was accepted, and a duel was expected.

☞ The wild or fox grape, which, three years since, was a drug in the Hartford (Connecticut) market at one dollar per bushel, is now selling at two dollars, and generally finds ready sale at that. It is said that the increased price and demand is a consequence of the very common manufacture of wines for families who obtain their own juice of the grape "for medicinal and mechanical purposes" by hand presses.

☞ The Philadelphia Bulletin points out the following advantages resulting from the use of crinoline: It frees woman from a needless weight of skirts, it strengthens the system by exposure to cold, and aids manufactures, stimulates the whale fishery, improves figures, displays ankles to a delirious extent in getting up stairs, and gives editors subjects for articles. All things considered, we see no great reason to grieve over the institution. It is not every fashion which developes so much or such varied industry as crinoline.

The Sons of Malta.

The members of this mysterious Order in Pittsburg had a grand procession on horseback, the other night, an account of which appears in the papers of that city. The demonstration was quite novel, and created a decided sensation. The Press, of the 16th, says:—

"The Sons of malta, who are always getting up some odd demonstration, and taking our citizens by surprise, appeared in an entirely new phase last night. They turned out on horseback, one hundred and twenty five in number, forming one of the grandest cavalcades ever witnessed in the city. They were dressed in the garb of the order—wearing their long white sheets, with cowls attached. The cowls were thrown back upon the present occasion, and glazed caps were substituted. The faces of the riders were generally either masked or painted, so that the uninitiated could not recognize them. A few of them however, were betrayed by their general appearance—fellows who had the misfortune to be unusually corpulent or long in the legs, were readily pointed out and named, to the infinite amusement of the spectators. The horses were covered with white blankets, with a gilt Maltese cross on each side—the cross being the ensign of the order. They rode through the principal streets, headed by Young's Brass Band, also on horseback."

The Mormon Hegira.

A writer in the Tribune, speaking of the fatal march of the saints across the plains, in 1846, and the graves found every where on the way, says:

During my return to the Territory last Spring, we camped one day for dinner on a rivulet which flows into the Sweetwater eight or ten miles west from the Devil's Gate. It was a most desolate spot, and even the sage-bushes were stunted around it, and failed to keep the sand from drifting into waves. We had unharnessed our mules and turned them out to pick the scanty tufts of bunch grass, and then we dispersed to collect fuel to cook our meal. I was returning to the ambulances with an armful of sage, when I saw one of the mailmen peeling long shavings with his hunting-knife from a narrow strip of pine. I threw down my load, and then stooped to warm my hands at the fire which was kindled, when I noticed on the board some words printed with red chalk, all of which that were distinguishable were "Agusta, aged 19." He saw that I observed them, and told me with some reluctance that he had pulled it out of a grave which had been dug over by the wolves. After dinner, while they were driving up the mules, I strayed to the spot to which he pointed me. There was nothing left around it except here and there a bone and a shred of coarse clothing. As I was turning away I stumbled over a clump of sage in which was entangled a mass of glossy brown hair, through which ran a soft thick braid.

HOUSE BLOWN DOWN A PRECIPICE. The Rockport (Ind.) Democrat relates a sad occurrence in that place on Sunday last. A house, containing a family, was blown down a precipice. It says:

"The house was blown over the rock, and falling about seventy-five feet was literally mashed to pieces, and horrible to relate, Mrs. Glonsbeckle was killed outright, and her four little children were more or less mangled, but not killed, though it is thought one or two of them will die. The accident occurred about 10 o'clock, P. M., and soon after the alarm was given, the citizens rushed to the scene of the disaster, and rescued the little sufferers from among the rubbish and timbers. It is a wonder the children were not all killed. The house stood on stilts, as it were, upon the very edge of the rock, and the wind must have lifted it up and turned it bottom upward, as it seemed to strike upon the roof. It is thought that Mrs. Glenbeckle and her children were in bed and asleep at the time of the awful occurrence.

COL. BENTON ON THE LITTLE GIANT.—Col. Benton, in conversing with a friend many months since, gave the following summary view of the prospects of Mr. Douglas:

"The Little Giant," said he, "is in too great a hurry to be a great man. He forgets that giants don't wear seven-league boots now-a-days, and that the first office in an elective government cannot be taken by storm. His ambition is much beyond his ability, for although a fluent speaker, his ideas don't bear the proper proportion to his words, and though he runs fast, he carries little weight. He thinks he can bestride this continent with one foot on the shore of the Atlantic, the other on the Pacific. But he can't do it—he can't do it. His legs are too short."

John Penn Jones' Attack on the Americans—the Man in Spasms.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—It appears, by the last Hollidaysburg Register, that the mere presentation of the proceedings of the American Congressional Conference to John Penn Jones had a serious effect upon him and threw him into spasms.

The idea that John Brotherline would not assert his friends, and go with them among the American party, seemed to be more than poor Jones could bear. He denounces John as all sorts of a bad man for not following in his lead. We hope he may well enjoy whatever he may gain by his present course. Jones knows he is driven into it by a certain Republican, and he is weak enough to think he can drive others. In this he is greatly mistaken.

He attacks the proceedings in a manner altogether becoming a new convert in politics.—His entire article attacking the Americans evinces all the feelings of a heart fatally bent upon mischief to the American party.

He states that no American Conventions has been held in any of the counties to authorize the holding of an American Conference to nominate a candidate for Congress. The truth is the little fellow turns around so often in politics that he does not really know where he was a month ago. He is weak enough to think the Americans ought to turn with him as often as he turns. The facts are an American Convention was held in this place, on the 20th day of may last, and appointed three citizens of this county to attend an American Congressional Conference, as conferees. Jones would now desire to wipe out the existence of that Convention, by modestly asserting that it was never held. It is true that the Conferees did not attend such a Conference, but does that ignore the fact that the Convention was held. Certainly not. The Conference was held, and there being no authority to compel the attendance of the delinquent Conferees, others were substituted by the Conference in their places. This is what john penn jones esq., editor of the Hollidaysburg Register, Associate Judge of the several Courts of Blair county, Treasurer of the Poor Fund of said county, and general recipient of all the favors of the party, and Dictator and Commander-in-chief throughout his whole Bailiwick, denounces as "A HIGH HANDED OUTRAGE UPON him, AND A VILE CHEAT."

But who are the men thus reviled by JOHN PENN JONES! John B. Simons, Esq., than whom a more honest man does not live. James A. McCahan, Esq., son of John McCahan, Esq., deceased, who twenty-two years ago took Jones off a canal boat and loaned him money to buy part of the very press with which he is now reviling the son. As to Mr. Brotherline, we will forbear for the present. If the base ingratitude of Jones towards him does not trouble his conscience, I can not by anything I can say, reach such a conscience. James Gardner, Dr. McPherran, Landon Reeve, George F. McCabe, and the other gentlemen composing the Conference are all worthy, honorable men, of good standing, whom Jones can not succeed in branding successfully as cheats. They are all far above his reach and all far better men than he is.

But why does Jones attack these gentlemen? Does he think by demolishing them he will finish the American party, and have built up completely, on its ruins, the Republican party. In this we think he will be slightly mistaken. The American sentiment will still be hovering about to annoy him. More in No. 2.

AN AMERICAN.

Hollidaysburg, Sept. 20, 1858.

Letter from Springfield, Ohio.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Sept. 14, 1858.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I have just returned from a pleasant walk with a boon companion of former years. Our conversation naturally turned upon the scenes of our own native State, where stand the lofty hills and towering mountains which often filled our minds with emotions of the sublime—where meander the cooling streamlets adown the rugged mountain's side;—and as we dwelt with rapture upon the other loved objects of our boyhood and maturer years, I said to my companion: "I do wonder what has become of the Altoona Tribune, as I have'nt seen a copy since I left my father's house!" My friend endeavored to comfort me by telling me that it would yet come—but I would not be comforted. I immediately went to my room and, snatching up a pen, dipped it into the ink, resolved to make my grievances known to the Editors, knowing that they would compassionate me and send me the Tribune ere I should entirely collapse into the "horrors."

Excuse the expression. Business is brisk in this city. Many improvements are being made—dwellings of a permanent character are rapidly going up—merchants and business men generally are doing a good business. One retail Dry Goods store lately sold $8,000 worth of goods in two weeks, and all others seem to be as busily engaged. There was not one firm in this city that suspended payment, or was visibly affected by the late financial crisis. Employment is plenty and mechanics get good wages.

A military encampment is ordered at this place on the 29th, and 30th of September and the 1st of October. Besides the companies of this county, three of the best drilled companies in the State have been invited, and I am informed will attend. An attractive time is anticipated. The Clark County Agricultural Fair will be held here on the 6th, 7th and 8th of October. The premiums offered are liberal.

But I must not forget to tell you of one thing which this city lacketh, and to my mind, the only one—the almost total absence of pretty ladies! I have walked these streets and rudely glanced at many a face; I have seen ladies arrayed in all the paraphernalia of fashion; yet have I not seen a truly beautiful lady. Why is this? Is it because the pretty ones do not come out to be gazed at, or have we gone in town? or is it because I am no judge of female beauty? I used to see beautiful ladies, I think, but I don't see any here. I'll wait—perhaps I will ere long—if I see one, I'll report the discovery. Another feature belonging to this place—a more favorable one than the last mentioned, however—is the absence of all "Codfish Aristocracy"—all ostentatious display and seclusive privileges.

Society is not split up into a thousand and one petty little factions to suit the whims of some befrilled, beruffled, obsequious devotees of Fashion. The [illegible] with the [illegible] of gaudy and tinsel show [illegible] so ignorant as to be unable to [illegible] intelligently for the profuse abundance of [illegible] phrases and outrageous jargon, is not [illegible] of the most importance nor the most desirable acquaintance. But I must hasten on to conclude. The Republicans and Democrats are handling each other pretty roughly here at present. Some rich things are expected soon. JUSTINUS.

TELEGRAPH TO SALT LAKE.—We were informed on Thursday (Aug. 20th,) says the Sacramento Union, by F. A. Bee, agent of the company which is now making arrangements to extend the Telegraph to Salt Lake, that the prospect is fair for entering upon the work at once. He has gone to San Francisco to purchase wire, and will soon return to commence the undertaking. He understands that O'Reilly, the well known telegraph man at the East, is determined to connect with Salt Lake as soon as he can make arrangements to do so. When that is completed, the Atlantic Cable laid, the Pacific spanned, and a few other trifling connections made, we will literally hang the globe on wire and swing it as we please.

☞ The Cleveland Plaindealer says some gentlemen in that city are perfecting a sort of narrow prairie plough, which they intend to use in laying an underground telegraphic cable across the western prairies, to California. This plan is to cut a channel, say three inches wide and about three feet deep, and to be so constructed as to pay out from the heel of the plan the isolated wire, which will be in no way connected with the plough, other than passing down through it as it progresses. It is expected that, on common prairie, this plough may be driven from ten to fifteen miles per day, filling and covering the wire as it goes.

ACCORDING to the Courrier de Charleori the lessees of the dancing saloons in Belgium complain bitterly of the falling off in their receipts, occasioned by the extra space occupied by crinolines. An instrument, called the "Crinolimetre," has consequently been adopted by some of them, and persons whose crinolines surpass a fixed developement are charged an extra admission fee. At a ball given at Montigny, in Belgium, one female was measured and charged an extra 75 centimes: another person, of an economic disposition, preferred reducing her crinoline by taking out two hoops!

TOO TRUE.—The Recorder of Chicago, Ill., in charging the grand jury recently, said:

"During the past five years that I have held this court, it has been my unpleasant duty to try and sentence to the State prison several hundred persons; and I am sorry to say that while it is an easy matter to find jurors who are ready and willing to punish poor offenders without position or friends, it is with great difficulty that jurors can be found who appreciate the fact that one bad man of position and wealth can do more than one hundred poor men can, who are in the humble walks of life.

NEW ORLEANS.—The Picayune, reviewing the material progress of New Orleans, says that it has escaped entirely the late commercial revulsion, and its commerce shows an increase, while in every other commercial city there has been a decrease. In all the leading staples there has been an excess of receipts over last year. The population of the city is given as 225,000. In 1840 it was 102, 148.

A TOUGH JOKE.—A law of Ohio requires commissioners to count, quarterly, every dollar in the Hamilton county treasury. The work was performed last Tuesday when the Commissioners had $205,000 in cash to manipulate, including $16,000 in gold dollars, and 23,009 pennies of the new coinage. As each coin was handled separately, the work was not slight.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The American State Convention met at Boston on Wednesday. About two hundred delegates were in attendance, and Ex-Governor Gardner was chosen president.—After the delivery of a number of speeches, the Hon. Amos A. Lawrence was nominated for Governor by acclamation.

NEBRASKA.—NOW IS THE TIME TO INVEST.—The undersigned is fully prepared to enter Government Lands in the Omaha land district. Sale of lands to commence on the 6th of September next, and continue for two weeks. All lands entered during sale to be paid for in Gold—after the sale Land Warrants can be used.

Nebraska is being rapidly settled with a hardy and energetic set of farmers. Good lands can be secured at and after the public sale, near large settlements. All you that want to invest, will do well to send on your Warrants soon. Warrants and drafts can be sent by mail with safety. Letters of inquiry answered.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.—VOLUME FOURTEENTH begins September 11, 1858. MECHANICS, INVENTORS, MANUFACTURERS AND FARMERS.
The Scientific American has now reached the Fourth Year, and will enter upon a New Volume on the 11th of September. It is the only weekly publication of the kind now issued in this country, and it has a very extensive circulation in all the States of the Union. It is not, as some might suppose from its title, a dry, abstruse work on technical science, on the contrary, it so deals with the great events going on in the scientific, mechanical and industrial works, as to please and instruct every one. If the Mechanic or Artizan wishes to know the best machine in use, or how to make any substance employed in his business—if the Housewife wishes to get a recipe for making a good color, &c.—if the Inventor wishes to know what is going on in the way of improvements—if the Manufacturer wishes to keep posted with the times, and to employ the best facilities in his business—if the man of leisure and study wishes to keep himself familiar with the progress made in the chemical laboratory, or in the construction of telegraphs, steamships, railroads, reapers, mowers, and a thousand other machines and appliances, both of peace and war—all these desiderata can be found in the Scientific American, and not elsewhere. They are here presented in a reliable and interesting form, adapted to the comprehension of minds unlearned in the higher branches of science and art.

SUFFERING HUMANITY, READ THIS.—The undersigned takes this method of informing the public generally that there is no medicine now offered to the public that is equal to DU VALL'S GALVANIC OIL in relieving suffering humanity.
I was an observer of its effects on a friend of mine, who suffered almost everything from a neuralgic affection which resisted the best medical treatment in Centre county. He applied freely the Galvanic Oil to the painful part, and rubbed some inwardly, and in 20 minutes the pain-cut was asleep, and when awakened was free from pain and continued so. LOCAL ITEMS.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.—The following table exhibits the receipts and expenditures of the above Road, for the month of August and also from the 1st of January, 1858:—

	Gross Earnings.	Expenses.	Net Earnings.
Earnings of the Road from all sources for the month ending August 31, 1858.	$432,229.19	$240,488.44	$191,740.75
Same month last year	453,911.48	250,508.86	183,402.62
Increase			$8,335.13
Decrease	$21,682.29	40,020.42
	Gross Earnings.	Expenses.	Net Earnings.
Earnings of Road from Jan. 1, 1858, to Sept. 1, 1858.	$3,418,378.06	$1,967,947.54	$1,450,430.54
Same time last year.	3,441,920.74	2,204,364.58	1,240,556.16
Increase.			$209,874.38
Decrease.	$ 26,542.66	236,417.04

From this table it will be seen that the gross earnings of the Road for the month of August, this year, are $21,682.29 less than for the same month last year, and the expenses $80,020.42, thus leaving a nett increase of $8,335.13.—While speaking about this Railroad, we give the following facts, furnished by Geo. C. Franciscus Esq., Superintendent of the Philadelphia Division, to the Harrisburg Patriot, from which some idea may be formed of its magnitude. He says that 4,200 men are now in the service of the company. The shops of Philadelphia, Columbia, Harrisburg, Mifflin, Altoona, Conemaugh and Pittsburg, employ 2,000 of these, and the remainder are distributed along the line—on the trains, &c. Six hundred and seventy-nine miles of track are owned by the company. Of this 355 miles are main track, 268 miles are second track, and fifty-six miles are sidelings. The receipts per mile are greater than on any other road in the country, the gross receipts being less only than those of the New York Central, which is using 600 miles of main track daily.

THE NEWTON HAMILTON ACCIDENT.—We notice that two of our Harrisburg contemporaries are particularly severe in their strictures upon the Conductor of the Freight Train to whom is charged the leaving open of the switch, at the above named place, on the morning the accident occurred. This, we think, in view of all the facts in the case, is unjust, although we do not attribute it to a desire, on their part, to do the Conductor a wrong, but to the fact that they have been misinformed. Mr. Jacob N. Dewees, the Conductor of the Freight Train, has always been considered one of the most careful and trusty men on the road, and we would do violence to our own feelings and sense of justice, did we not protest against the reproach heaped upon him. The switch was not touched by Mr. Dewees, on the morning in question, but was turned in his presence, by the switch tender, who has been in the habit of regulating it for all the Conductors on the road, although it was contrary to the instructions given to Conductors, which requires them in all cases to attend to the switches themselves. Having seen that all was right, Mr. Dewees took his position on his train. After he had left, the switch-tender undertook to oil the switch and turned it back and forth several times to make it work more easily, and unfortunately, left it open.—To these facts the switch-tender testified before the officers of the Company in this place, and entirely exhonerated Mr. Dewees from any blame in the matter, further than a dereliction of duty, which required him to attend to the switch himself, and for this cause alone was he discharged from the Road.

PERILOUS LEAP.—On Friday evening last, a man named James Moore, alias Thompson, alias Johnson, who was under the charge of officer Patterson, of Philadelphia, and was charged with stealing a lot of gold coins from the United States Mint, in that city, made a desperate attempt to escape from the officer, when about three miles from Pittsburg, by jumping out of a window of one of the cars in the express Train, which was running at the rate of about 35 miles an hour. He told the officer that he wished to go to the water closet, and both started from their seats. Moore passed into the closet, while Patterson stopped a few feet in the rear to talk to a friend. Scarcely had Moore entered the apartment ere he was observed to leap from the window. The train was stopped as soon as possible and backed to the spot where he was supposed to have leaped out, but he was no where to be seen, and the train passed on leaving the officer to look for his prisoner. Walking down the track a short distance Mr. Patterson found the hat of the runaway, and pursuing his search still further, he came upon the prisoner, himself, lying on the track and almost insensible, having received a severe cut upon the back of his head and bruises on various parts of his body. As soon as he was able to walk, Mr. Patterson took him back to the city where his wounds were dressed, and he was otherwise provided for.—Officer Patterson intended trying another trip with him on Saturday evening last, at which time he would be ironed and thus prevented from repeating his daring feat.

COMPLIMENTARY.—We publish with pleasure and pride the following resolutions, which we copy from the Juniata Register. It is characteristic of the citizens of this place to treat strngers and visiters, in whatever honorable capacity or character they may come among them, with that cordiality which calls forth many commendatory notices:—

At a regular stated council of IROQUOIS TRIBE, No. 42, I. O. R. M., held at its wigwam, on the Sleep of the 13th Sun, Corn Moon, G. S. 5619, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of this Tribe be returned to the Chiefs and Brothers of WINNEBAGO TRIBE, No. 55, I. O. R. M., of Altoona, for their kind reception and brotherly treatment of the Chiefs and Brothers of this tribe, on the occasion of our recent visit to Altoona, and for their unwearied and successful efforts to make our brief stay pleasant and agreeable, and trust that an occasion may soon occur, when we can reciprocate their kind hospitality.

Resolved, That we express our sincere wishes for the continued prosperity of WINEBAGO TRIBE, now one of the most flourishing in the State, and composed of noble, whole-soul fellows, whom we are proud to call Brothers.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Juniata Register and Sentinel and Altoona Tribune.

HORRIBLE SUICIDE.—On Sunday afternoon last, a Scotchman named Alexander Gilbert came to the County Poor House and desired lodging. He was kindly furnished with supper and bed by Mr. McGraw. He was put in the same room with several inmates of the House. About half past eight o'clock he was heard to scream or cry out. Mr. McGraw proceeded to his room and told him that he must either be quiet or leave the house; he denied having made any noise, and promised not to make any disturbance. About eleven o'clock Mr. McGraw was aroused by one of the inmates of the Scotchman's room, who he said was cutting his throat. Mr. McGraw on going to the room found that he had made an attempt to cut his throat with on old knife which was in the room. The knife being very dull, he had not succeeded in destroying life, but had made a gash from which he bled very profusely. He was frantically clutching his throat and endeavoring to tear open the cut with his fingers. Mr. McGraw persuaded him to desist, and there being no one in the room on whom he could rely for help—he went out for the purpose of getting a rope and assistance to tie him, in order to prevent his further injuring himself. On his return he found the unfortunate man reeling around the room and blood gushing from his throat in a perfect stream; during his absence the Scotchman had broken the window, and with a piece of broken glass, had severed the artery and cut his throat from ear to ear! He died in a moment afterwards.

When he came there he represented himself as coming from Cincinnati, but a pass book, found on his person, had in it the address of "A. Gilbert, engineer, Blackwater, Westmoreland Co.;" another of "Alex. Gilbert, Montour Co., Pa., and another "A. Gilbert, Connemaugh Furnace, Westmoreland County, Pa." It had also in it a copy of the account of A. Gilbert with John Nulton dated July 10th 1855. He was probably a resident of Westmoreland Co., and wandered here, and in a fit of mania committed the terrible deed of destroying his own life. He was about 28 or 30 years of age—5 feet 10 inches high—very stout and heavy—had black hair, and was very poorly clad. We could not imagine a more terrible or horrible circumstance than that of a strong young man, away from home, away from every one who knows him, enacting the fearful tragedy of self-murder! There is a degree of horror connected with it which causes a chill to run over those who have long been accustomed to hearing of deeds of blood. There is, too a mystery—surrounding the unknown sucide which but serves to make his case more terrible. Who was he?—what was he?—where was he from?—and a hundred other questions arise, to all of which the same answer must be given—it is unknown.—Standard.

THE COMET.—As every Local Itemizer in the county is having something to say about the stranger which has lately appeared in the heavens, we must also look as "wise as an owl"—like the rest of them—and talk about it as tho' we know it all our life. Yes we do know all about it; it is situated a little west of north, in close proximity to the hindermost foot of the too hind feet of the Great Bear, (of course every body knows where he stays) on a direct line with the two Pointers, (you know where they are—if you don't, don't ask us,) and can be seen at half-past seven o'clock every evening (when there are no clouds about) and at 4 o'clock in the morning, (we don't vouch for this, never having seen it at that time,) in the direction of sun rise, and is said to be nearing the earth with great velocity, (delinquents think of that,) has a fiery narrative 160,000,000 miles long and travels at the rate of 150,000,000 miles an hour; (delinquents, you can't beat it by telegraph, and its tail will reach you wherever you may flee,) but nobody will be hurt by it unless it be those who owe Printer's bills, (now friend hurry and pay up.) There now we know and have told you about as much as the rest of the wise ones, and hope you'll bear our remarks in remembrance.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY TICKET.—We unintentionally neglected publishing the names of the nominees of the above Convention, in our last issue, and therefore give them this week, although we presume most of our readers are already acquainted with them.

Assembly—Dr. R. C. Christy, of Allegheny.
Sheriff—Christain Snyder, of Hollidaysburg.
Prothonotary—A. J Chrissman, N. Woodberry.
Commissioner—Jacob Zeth, of Springfield.
Director of the Poor—George B. Cramer, of Altoona.
Treasurer—A. F. Osterloh, of Hollidaysburg.
Auditor—E. B. Isett, of Tyrone.
Coroner—J. D. Spielman, of Juniata.

As usual, Altoona, although she presented good men for the lucrative offices, has been given a back seat in the synagogue. From the few words dropped in our hearing, we do not believe that the ticket will be very heartily supported in this "neck o'timber." Men here, as well as other places, desire to be rewarded for their services to their party, and dislike the idea of being put off with the petty offices. By the time of the second Tuesday arrives, however, we presume all will be right.

THE ENCAMPMENT.—Next week we presume there will be a good time generally in the town "over the hill," as the encampment that has been so much talked about will come off at that time, within a short distance of the town. The Dramatic Association of Hollidaysburg will give three ar four entertainments during the week, and the Brass Band and Glee Club are to give a grand Concert. If we can possibly find time to get out of our Office, we shall visit the tented field, as we confess a decided partiality to viewing the "Pride, pomp and circumstance of glorious war."

The companies from this place will be in attendance. There are now some eight or ten companies in the county, all of which will take part in the encampment, besides several in adjoining counties who have been invited and are confidently expected.

ACCOMMODATIONS.—Our old friend, Matthias Otto, announces through our columns, this week, that he has opened a house of entertainment in this place. We recommend his house to the favorable consideration of those wishing a good boarding place, or to travellers, feeling sure that they will be treated to the best accommodations at reasonable prices.

BOLD BURGLARY.—One of the boldest burglaries of which we have any recollection was perpetrated in this place, on Monday last, by which our friend J. M. Cherry, Esq., was relieved of eight watches. At noon, on the day in question, Mr. C. locked up his establishment and went to dinner. On his return, about one o'clock, he discovered that some person had been and taken possession of his shop during his absence. A little further search convinced him that the visitor had appropriated a number of watches without his permission. Constable Ely was immediately summoned and a warrant for the arrest of John Crigger a German watchmaker from Baltimore, who had previously worked for Mr. Cherry, was placed in his hands. Crigger was seen about the shop, at the time mentioned, by a number of persons, but little attention was paid to that circumstance from the fact that he had been seen at work in the shop. He effected an entrance at the back window of the building and after unscrewing the hasp on the front door, which held the bolt, and shoving it to one side in order to let the bolt pass, he went out of the window again and came around and went in at the door, evidently to create the impression, should he be observed that he had a right to enter the shop. Securing the number of watches mentioned, he passed out at the front door, leaving it open. On being arrested he denied the charge. None of the missing watches were found on his person, but the circumstantial evidence aduced was considered strong enough to warrant his detention.—He was accordingly taken to the "Lock up," at which place Constable Ely searched his pockets and found a screw which exactly fitted the hasp of the door of the shop, and the paint upon the head of the screw and on the hasp corresponded. He also found in his possession a small hammer which had been used in unscrewing the hasp, as the point of the hammer fitted the marks on the head of the screw. Crigger was taken to Hollidaysburg, on Tuesday, and placed in jail to await a trial at the next term of court.

ACCIDENT.—A few days since, an old friend, Joe Trout, came very near paying a visit to the "other side of Jordan," by remaining a little too long upon one of the railroad tracks, in conversation with a friend. He was standing with his back toward the approaching engine and consequently did not hear or observe it until it was within a few feet of him. He endeavored to clear the track, but before he could do so, was struck by the bumper, (the engine was backing) which fortunately knocked him on the outside of the track. He was considerable cut and bruised about the head and face, and was rendered senseless for some time. We have observed him on his feet again, within the last few days, and expect soon to hear him "crying" sales.

PEOPLES' MEETING.—Handbills have been posted throughout the town and Country, calling for a Peoples' Meeting, to be held in the vicinity of our office, on to-morrow evening, at 7½ o'clock. A number or speakers are announced to be present. This is the first rally of the campaign in this place, but we suppose it will not be the last, although there is but a short time longer to work. Judging from the desires of the politicians in the town "over the hill," to have the disaffections which exist in all parties, in this place, on account of the nominations, healed up, we presume we shall be often visited between this and the 2d Tuesday of Octot er. Altoona is a big spoke in the political wheel.

AN IMPORTANT MEDICINE FOR LUNG COMPLAINTS.—Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup, sold at G. W. Kessler's in this place, has won an enviable reputation in the various Diseases of the Lungs and Pulmonary Organs. We are aware of no medicine that has given such general satisfaction, and why should it not? Dr. Keyser is a regular physician, now in the Wholesale Druggist business in Pittsburg, and we are assured by him that he mixes and weighs with his own hands, every ounce of ingredient that goes into this valuable compound, giving thereby a guarantee, of great care, at least, in its compounding.

AT HIS POST AGAIN.—We are pleased to notice our jovial friend, Yankee Jones, the model engineer on the Branch train, who for the last month has been on a visit to his friends "down East," is again at his post. Few, if any, engineers on the Pa. R. R. understands their business better than "Yank," and there are none behind whom passengers can feel more secure from danger, and besides this, he is a clever accommodating whole-souled fellow, whose daily visits we could not dispense with. Hurrah for "Yank," and "No. 22."

☞ The excitement in town, the other evening, was not occasioned by the cry of fire, or a fight, or the comet, or an accident, or a bank panic, as many might have presumed, to see the people rushing in the direction of Bell, Johnson, Jack & Co's banking house, but by the news that there was prime Philadelphia Cove Plant Oysters at Taylor's Saloon, next door to the bank. Said Oysters may be had every evening, and at all times, at said Saloon, and the said Taylor will take pleasure in serving up said oysters to all who may call. See advertisement.

NEW RAILROAD.—We learn from the Standard that Engineers are engaged in surveying a route for a railroad from Wood, Morrel & Co's ore bank to Hollidaysburg, a distance of some three miles. It will be the same guage as the Pennsylvania Railrond, with which it will connect at the Weigh Look. It is designed for carrying ore, and will be constructed this winter.

ADMITTED.—Jonathan D. Lect, Esq., of Hollidaysburg, was admitted last week, to practice in the United States District Court.

THE PANIC—MORE FAILURES.—The panic in New York seems to be on the increase. In this city everything goes on smoothly, and the only failures we have heard of were the failures to furnish good fits made by some inferior clothing establishments. There is no such difficulty to be encountered by those who patronize the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above sixth. Gentlemen and Youths never fail to procure capital fits at this popular establishment.

☞ See advertisement of Dr. Sandford's LIVER INVIGORATOR in another column.

For the Altoona Tribune.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—With your permission, a word or two touching the "Library Association" just formed in our place. It need scarcely be said that much interest has been felt in this matter ever since "T. N. K." first suggested it to the "Young Men of Altoona." The suggestion was worthy of their highest consideration and prompt action. It is a matter of rejoicing that they have taken action; and from the Tribune we learn that the organization has been completed, the room assigned, &c. This is all well and promises well, and if properly conducted will tell with much force upon the interests and improvement of the place and community.

There are, however, one or two matters which your correspondent could have wished otherwise. The first of these is with regard to the name. It may be said the name is a small matter. So it is in itself considered. But if that name is calculated in the least to beget a prejudice against the Association, according to this very acknowledgment it had better be altered. It is so small a matter that none of the friends and advocates of the present style of the Society ought to insist upon it. Now it cannot be denied that the name "Mechanic" has a specific meaning, especially in a place where so large a proportion belong to that particular class. To give that special style therefore to the association, does seem, whether intended or not, strongly that such particularly are solicited to join, and that for them more especially it was formed. Now if there was no such intention, the best proof of the fact will be in a manifest willingness to drop that part of the style, and so remove the, at least apparent, objection to some. It is a fact, that some have felt aggrieved by this prefix to the name, whether justly so or not. This being the case, it would be magnanimous in the mechanics who belong to the society to labor for the change suggested. It is to be hoped they will do it. They will certainly enlarge the membership, increase the funds, and by so doing enlarge the usefulness of the Association. And that is what all its friends and any philanthropist should desire.

The "Road Men," as they are technically called—and by the way, a very laborious and indispensable part of the employees of the P. R. R., and besides, a part of our community who very much need the wholesome influences of such an association—they feel that in the name the intimation is held out to them that this society is not for you. The writer does not say it is so, but if they feel that it is so, the effect is just as if it was really so; and the barrier ought to be removed. It is the case we have learned also with some of the citizens. Now nothing ought to be done which is calculated to divide in feeling those whose interests are so nearly allied. Such are the relations which the different classes of this place bear to each other, that it is impossible to injure the one without affecting the others. What we need, then, is something that will serve as a bond of union, and not as a bone of contention. Let every thing that is calculated to cause a diversity of feeling or of interests be removed. If the name of the "Library Association" is calculated to do this, to any extent, let it at once be changed.

The constitution also of this society, if we are correctly informed, distinguished in favor of the employees of the Pa. R. R. Co. If this be the case, an error has, we think, been committed. Not that it is a matter of consequence, one way or the other, who are the officers of the society, if they be competent and energetic; but because it creates and fosters distinctions which should not exist among the citizens of the same place. Little jealousies and bickerings are much too likely to arise without anything of that kind to foster them. And the writer has very much mistaken the generous spirit that actuates the leading men connected with the Company, if any such distinctions in favor of the employees will meet their approval. We have greatly mistaken the breadth of their views and liberal-mindedness, if they would not decidedly condemn it. Such things are calculated to array the employees against the citizens, and the citizens against the employees—a state of things which the officers of the Road, and we all, should most earnestly deprecate. Can't the name then be changed, and the constitution be so amended as to make no distinctions? If so, your correspondent would most heartily rejoice—not because of any zeal he has personally on the subject, but because a bone of contention would be removed, and the ends for which the Association has been formed, be better promoted.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR!
PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD,
COMPOUNDED ENTIRELY FROM GUMS,
Is one of the best Purgative and Liver Medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic, easier, milder, and more effectual than any other medicine known. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to effect its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The LIVER is one of the principal regulators of the human body; and when it performs its functions well, the powers of the system are fully developed. The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the healthy action of the Liver for the proper performance of its functions; when the stomach is at fault, the bowels are at fault, and the whole system suffers in consequence of one organ—the LIVER—having ceased to do its duty. For the disease of that organ, one of the proprietors has made it his study, in a practice of more than twenty years, to find counteracts the many deliable.

To prove that this remedy is all we say in case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, and conviction is certain.

These Gums remove all morbid or bad matter from the system, supplying their place a healthy flow of bile, invigorating the stomach, causing food to digest well, PURIFYING THE BLOOD, giving tone and strength to the nervous, removing the cause radical cure.

Bilious Attacks are cured, AND, WHAT IS BETTER, PREVENTED, by the occasional use of the LIVER INVIGORATOR.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the most distressing from rising and souring. One dose taken before retiring, prevents sickness.

One dose taken after each night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures Costiveness. One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia. One dose of two teaspoonfuls will always relieve SICK HEADACHE.

One bottle taken for fever and ague, will remove all obstruction from the liver, and makes a perfect cure. One dose immediately relieves Cholic, while one dose often repeated is a sure cure for CHOLERA MORBUS, and a preventive of CHOLERA. Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of mercury after a long sickness. One bottle taken for JAUNDICE removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin. One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite, and makes the food digest well. One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhœa in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose. One or two doses cures attacks caused by Worms in children; there is no remedy in the world, as it is, for Summer complaint, safer, or speedier never fails. A few bottles cures Dropsy by exciting the absorbents to healthy action. We take pleasure in recommending the medicine as a preventive for Fever and Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious type, and it operates with certainty, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

All who use it are giving their unanimous testimony in its favor.

☞ Mix Water in the mouth with the Invigorator, and swallow both together.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR
IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is daily working cures, almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even the first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a DISEASED LIVER.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

Wood's Hair Restorative, that to-day we were compelled to send to Boston for a quantity, (the 6 dozen you forwarded all being sold,) while we might order a quantity from you. Every bottle we have sold seems to have produced three or four new customers, and the reputation, and patronage it receives from the most substantial and worthy citizens of our vicinity, fully convince us that it is A MOST VALUABLE PREPARATION.

Hickory Grove, St. Charles Co., Mo., Nov. 19, 1856.

PROF. O. J. WOOD—Dear Sir: Some time last summer we were induced to use some of your Hair Restorative, and its effects were so wonderful, we feel it our duty to you and the afflicted, to report it.

Our little son's head for some time had been perfectly covered with sores, and some called it scald head. The hair almost entirely came off in consequence, when a friend, seeing his sufferings, advised us to use your Restorative, we did so with little hope of success, but, to our surprise, and that of all our friends, a very few applications removed the disease entirely, and a new and luxurient crop of hair soon started out and we can now say that our boy has as healthy a scalp, and as luxurient a crop of hair as any other child. We can therefore, and do hereby recommend your Restorative, as a perfect remedy for all diseases of the scalp and hair.
We are, yours respectfully,
GEORGE W. HIGGINBOTHAM,
SARAH A. HIGGINBOTHAM.

PROF. O. J. WOOD—Dear Sir: I have used two bottles of Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and can truly say it is the greatest discovery of the age for restoring and changing the Hair. Before using it I was a man of seventy. My Hair has now attained its original color. You can recommend it to the world without the least fear, as my case was one of the worst kind.

Yours Respectfully,
DANIEL N. MURPHY.

HAMMONTON LANDS NEW ENGLAND SETTLEMENT.—RARE OPPORTUNITY.

Improved Farms in a healthy place, twenty-five miles from Philadelphia, on the Camden and Atlantic railroad, in New Jersey. An old estate has recently been opened for sale, and the first division of 10,000 acres divided up into farms of twenty acres and upwards. The soil is of the best quality for the production of fruits, grains, &c. The price is $25 to $30 per acre, payable in easy quarter yearly instalments, within a term of four years, with interest. The terms are made easy, in order to insure the rapid improvement of the land, by enabling every industrious man to buy a farm. It is now being extensively improved by good people, and some of the best citizens from New England and the Middle States are erecting large improvements. It is a scene of the greatest improvement out of Philadelphia.—Twenty-five houses have been built in four months. Practical farmers and business men from the length and breadth of the Union are settling there. It is an important business place, on account of its being in the midst of a great market. Every article raised upon this land finds an immediate sale. The water is excellent, and no such thing as fever is known.

The soil is a sandy or clay loam, with a clay bottom and retentive of manures. It is free of stones and easily worked. It abounds largely in the phosphates, and such is its fertility that from the crops produced both upon this land and the large area adjoining under cultivation, it will be found not to be excelled anywhere in the production of crops most adapted to its market.

The reader may be well aware that the earliest and the best fruits and vegetables come from New Jersey, which are annually exported to the amount of millions of dollars. The land, besides being accessible in every way for fertilizers, has an abundant supply of the best quality of muck manure.

Lumber and building materials can be had on the spot at as cheap price, from the mills. Other mills are now being opened, and brickyards being started on the ground. A person can put up a frame tenement for present convenience for one hundred dollars. On account of the extensive emigration, this is the best course to pursue in order to get a place to live in at first. Carpenters and builders are on hand to put up houses on the best terms.

In settling here the emigrant has many advantages. He is within a few hours' ride of the great cities of the Middle States and New England; he is near his old friends and associations; he is in a settled country, where every improvement and comfort of civilization is at hand; he is in a healthy place, and is not subject to the certainty of losing the greater part of his family and his own health by those malignant fevers which make the graves of so many millions of the young and and hardy in the far off regions away from home and friends. Besides, he has a mild climate and an open winter.

There are three trains daily to Philadelphia, and to all those who improve the railroad company gives a free ticket.

The reader will at once be struck with the advantages here presented, and ask himself why the property has not been taken up before. The reason is, it was never thrown in the market; and unless these statements were correct no one would be invited to examine the land before purchasing. This all are expected to do. They will see for themselves if what they will meet person, no doubt, from their own neighborhood; they will witness the improvements, and can judge of the character of the population. Persons should be prepared to purchase, as many are locating, and locations are not held on refusal.

The Hammonton Farmer, a monthly Literary and Agricultural sheet, containing full information of Hammonton will be sent to each enquirer, and can be obtained at 25 cts per annum.

Title indisputable. Warrantee deeds given, clear of all incumbrance, when purchase money is paid. Route to the land:—Leave Vine street wharf, Philadelphia, for Hammonton, by railroad, at 7½ A. M., and 5½ P. M.; when there inquire for Mr. Byrnes. Boarding conveniences will be found. Letters and applications can be addressed to S. B. COUGHLIN, 202 South FIFTH Street, below Walnut, Philadelphia. Maps and information cheerfully furnished.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN COOKING STOVES.

CONSUMPTION OF SMOKE AND GAS AND SAVING OF FUEL,

The subscriber takes pleasure in offering to the public a NEW GAS AND SMOKE CONSUMING

Cooking Stove, recently patented, which is destined to supercede all others, as it requires

than other stoves and is more easily, quickly and regularly heated. No unpleasant smell of gas arises from this stove from the fact that it is all consumed ere it can escape. There is no trouble from smoke as that unpleasant and often annoying exhalation is also consumed inside of the stove Neither is there any danger of flues or chimneys becoming clogged with soot or the mortar loosened by the gas arising from coal fires.

Persons wishing to purchase stoves are invited to call at the store of the subscriber, in the Masonic Temple, and examine the above stoves.

GREAT DISCOVERY OF THE AGE

IMPORTANT TO

TOBACCO CHEWERS.

It is a well known and incontrovertible fact that the use of Tobacco is the promoting cause of many of the most severe.

MENTAL AND PHYSICAL DISORDERS.

and to which the race of man is subject, as careful analysis and long and painful experience have clearly proven that it contains certain narcotic and poisonous properties most dangerous in their effects, which by entering into the blood derange the functions and operations of the Heart, causing many to suppose that organ to be seriously diseased.

TOBACCO affects also the entire NERVOUS system, manifesting itself—as all who have ever used the noxious weed will bear testimony—in Lassitude, Nervous Irritability, Water Brash, Dyspepsia, and many other disorders of a similar character.

THE TASTE RESTORATIVE TROCHES

Are designed to counteract these baneful influences, and have proved completely successful in a multitude of cases, and wherever used. Being harmless in themselves they exert a beneficial effect upon the entire system, restoring the Taste which has become vitiated or destroyed by great indulgence, completely removing the irritation and accompanying tickling sensation of the Throat—which are always consequent upon abstaining from the use of Tobacco, and by giving a healthy tone to the Stomach, invigorate the whole system.

Persons who are irretrievably undermining their constitutions and shortening their lives, should use these Troches immediately and throw off the injurious and and unpleasant habit of Tobacco Chewing.

These Troches of Lozenges are put up in a convenient and portable form at the low price of 50 Cents per Box. A liberal discount to the Trade.

Prepared solely by the undersigned to whom all orders should be addressed.
